Federal trial delayed

County could be liable in deep hole suits asking $8 million

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock County could be liable for up to $8 million in damages if lawsuits filed by survivors of eight deep hole drowning victims are successful.

The hole, located about 1,500 feet offshore from Gulfside Assembly Center and Buccaneer State Park, is a crater-like cavity 500 feet by 800 feet in size which was apparently created in a 1966 Corps' dredging project forming a sand beach from Ballentine Street in Bay St. Louis to Bayou Cadet.

Officials report some 25 people have drowned in the hole during the last few years with the underwater crater claiming its latest victim, a Slidell man, May 31.

The sand berm was designed by the Corps to prevent Beach Boulevard from eroding due to storm wave action.

A quicksand mud bottom was added to the hole in 1979 when spoils from a nearby Bayou Cadet dredging operation were dumped in an attempt to fill the cavity, apparently making the hole more dangerous than it was previously.

Warning signs have also been placed on the beach by the City of Waveland, and the County Civil Defense installed markers offshore around the deadly hole itself.

Mayor John Longo of Waveland is now seeking assistance from state officials to secure a Corps permit to fill the cavity with barges and trees which would create an artificial fishing reef.

The lawsuits were filed almost two years ago in U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi in Biloxi by survivors of deep hole victims number 17 through 24.

Those victims include Francisco J. Verrett, 22, on June 13, 1976; Peter Wells Jr., 24; Demetrius Myles, 14; Shavella Price, 16; Randall T. Shorts, 15; and Freddie Brown, 17, all of New Orleans; and Marcy R. Butler of Hammond, La., all on June 4, 1977; and Dale J. Remy, 23, of Slidell on June 3, 1978.

The combined amount of damages sought in the suits is $7,765,000.

Initially the United States Government, an unnamed project engineer, prime contractor Farrell Construction Co. of Tennessee, and subcontractors Kingfisher Marine Services of Texas and Alachua Dredging Co. of Louisiana were named as defendants in the suit.

Now all the contractors have been excluded from the suit because they apparently followed contract specifications which called for dredging no closer than 1,500 feet from the shoreline.

However, the U.S. Government included the county as a defendant based on a October 15, 1965 resolution by the Board of Supervisors to "hold and save the United States free from damages due to the approved work."

In a third party complaint, U.S. Attorneys Robert E. Hauberg and James Lewis charge, "Hancock County was negligent in failing to take proper measures to protect the public, and in failing to maintain proper warning signs in the beach and borrow areas."

The borrow area is that spot in the surf from which sand was 'borrowed' to create the beach, in turn creating the hole in question.

Answering the complaint, the county's legal counsel, the firms of Gex, Gex and Phillips of Bay St. Louis and White and Morse of Gulfport, answered the government's charges, stating, "The allegations are admitted (but) it is shown affirmatively that Hancock County played no part in securing the contract for repair to the seawall, did not dictate the terms of said contract, did not control the contractor or any of his subcontractors, did not inspect the completed work and had no legal right to do so."

Boulevard road and seawall repairs were undertaken and debris was cleared from the area resulting from Hurricane Betsy damages in Sept., 1965.

In the 1965 resolution the supervisor also pledged to "provide all lands, easements, and rights-of-way necessary for accomplishment of the approved work."

A federal jury trial—in which all the lawsuits have been combined for one hearing—was scheduled for Monday, but has been delayed until an undetermined September date.

Jerry Davis, an assistant U.S. attorney in Biloxi, Tuesday reported the trial has been delayed because U.S. District Judge Daniel Thomas of Mobile, Ala. encountered a scheduling conflict.

The attorney said all Mississippi Southern District judges have removed themselves from the case because of conflicting interests.

The U.S. District Judge Walter Nixon was originally scheduled to hear the cases.

Davis added, "All parties concerned are ready for trial."

With these federal damage actions pending, some county, city and Corps officials are reluctant to discuss in detail the dangerous situation or to take responsibility on themselves or their respective entities for a solution to the continuing danger posed by the deadly mud-filled crater, lest as a result they become burdened with the legal responsibility for the past deaths.

Waveland Police this week warned away several persons swimming near the deep hole area and children were reportedly floating on air mattresses Sunday on the water over the deadly cavity.

HGH prepping for accreditation try

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Phil Langston, administrator of Hancock General, reported to the board of trustees that all departments are up to date with just a few things left to do before a June 30 survey by a team from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH).

Langston also reported that new smoke dampers have been installed and that the wiring is now in progress and should be ready for the JCAH survey.

Dr. Alan Arrington, MD, internal medicine and pulmonary function specialist, appeared before the trustees on behalf of the staff doctors requesting the purchase of a new blood gas machine.

approving advertising for a new unit, which is much more advanced in technology, according to Dr. Arrington, and would be an asset to HGH.

Dr. Joseph Lee, trustee and medical staff member, reported the doctor staff has checked the credentials of Dr. Tomas Flores, an orthopedic specialist, of Corinth, Miss., and recommends that he be granted privileges.

HGH has been seeking an orthopedic specialist for sometime.

Persons with broken bones often have to be transferred to other hospitals.

A lengthy discussion was held about the possibility of having a doctor in the emergency room on a 24-hour basis during week days.

The trustees recommended that

New Year's baby isolated in Gulfport Hospital

By BRENT MACEY
A five-month-old Hancock County baby has been confined since birth to the intensive care unit of the Gulfport Memorial Hospital nursery.

That area is usually reserved only for tiny, premature babies who need special attention for a few days to a week before they can leave the facility.

John Santalla Jr. of Lakeshore, was also born premature.

Born three months early on Jan. 1, 1981 and weighing three pounds eight ounces, he too was placed in an incubator.

However, this New Year's baby never left the hospital in his mother's arms to go to a normal home. He is still in the intensive care unit.

Nurses say very few babies ever stay in the unit for more than three months but John's problem is a very unusual.

Although he looks like any normal, healthy five month old, special precautions are made to keep him isolated from the normal world.

John, several months after birth, developed a disease known as Bronchial Pulmonary Displasia.

A lung disease which doctors are not sure he will out grow has made the linings in his lungs lose their normal elasticity.

Most normal humans require 21 percent oxygen in the air which they breathe.

At birth John required more, like many premature babies, who are born with Highland Membrane disease.

He was connected to a respirator to solve that problem but after over a month on the respirator he then developed his current disease which is much more serious.

John now requires between 24 to 28 percent oxygen in the air he breathes.

For this reason his must constantly be given higher concentrations.

A plastic hood is kept over John's head in his crib. The hood is connected by tubing to oxygen and compressed air pumped into the intensive care unit.

ISOLATED AND RECEIVING OXYGEN—John Santalla Jr. of Waveland lies in his crib in Gulfport Memorial Hospital under an oxy hood used to increase oxygen supply to his lungs. The five-month-old New Year's baby contracted a lung disease shortly after birth and has never left the intensive care section of the hospital nursery. A John Santalla Jr. Bonnet Fund has been established at Hancock Bank in Bay St. Louis so oxygen equipment vital to his existence can be purchased and he can be taken out of the hospital and brought home. FIRE DAMAGE—Jerry Benigno, executive secretary of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, inspects damage caused by a fire Sunday night at the chamber's office on US-90 in Bay St. Louis. Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, said the fire was caused by the short circuit in a fluorescent light in the office's hallway. A passing motorist spotted smoke and called the fire department at 11:45. Ceiling tiles were destroyed in the hall and ceiling joists in that area were partly destroyed. The damage was considered minor by the chief. Money Mart, adjoining the chamber's office, reported little to minor damage. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Clermont Harbor may face water rate hike

By BRENT MACEY
A Vicksburg man is attempting to purchase the Clermont Harbor Waterworks system which services some 294 residences and businesses.

Glenn Johnson, who owns two utility systems in the state, also is seeking approval for a rate increase for the Clermont system from the Mississippi Public Service Commission.

Applications in the name of Johnson Utility Company, doing business as Clermont Harbor Waterworks, are on file in the PSC office in Jackson.

E.W. Robinson, executive secretary of that agency, said a public hearing date will be set at a commission meeting July 7 in Jackson.

He stated input during the public hearing will be considered before any action is taken by the commission.

The commission must approve the certificate of transfer and the rate increases before anything is finalized.

According to a spokesman for the Public Service Commission, Johnson is requesting a rate increase from $40 per year per household to $12 for the first 3,000 gallons of water (the minimum bill per month) plus an additional $1.50 for each 750 gallons above 3,000 gallons.

The American Waterworks Association states the average rural American uses some 50 gallons of water a day and the average urban American uses 80 gallons.

The rate request asks commercial rates be changed to $25 for the first 10,000 gallons plus $1.20 for each additional 750 gallons.

The PSC spokesman, who wished to remain anonymous, stated he believes the current owner negotiated a separate contract with each commercial business. He could not give

Hancock shares in emergency services grant

A Grant of $406,992 has been awarded to the Gulf Coast Emergency Medical District composed of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties, according to an announcement by the medical directors of the district.

Director Dr. Carol Ann Smith said the primary use of the monies would be to switch to an interference-free UHF radio system and to provide improved and expanded training for emergency medical technicians, paramedics, dispatchers and first responders.

Acting Project Director Steve Delahoussy credited this award to the sound administrative structure and record of outstanding achievements by the emergency medical service providers within the District.

He noted that because of the matching fund provision, the total amount expended to expand and improve emergency medical service in the district will actually amount to nearly $800,000.

John Reiter, president of Mobile Medical Ambulance Service, added that this grant in no way changes or alters the status of present providers of such services, but will enhance service throughout the district.

Reiter also announced that the annual 1980-81 Mobile Medical membership subscription drive is scheduled for the month of July and that renewal forms are in the mail.

The directors thanked the county and municipal governments, the State Board of Health, all medical facilities and Congressman Trent Lott, without whose support the grant could never have become a reality.

This apparatus is vital to keeping John alive.

Nurses say that he can come out of the hood for only a short time before he begins to wheeze and begins turning pale.

On a good day he can sometimes stay outside for an hour but that is only on a real good day.

Because of his weakened lung condition, he has also become very susceptible to germs. Anybody who wishes to see Johnny, and that is only his parents and grandmother, must first scrub their hands with an iodine solution and then don a sterilized robe.

If John ever catches a cold, nurses say the result could lead to serious complications.

Janis Bourgeois of Lakeshore, John's grandmother, wants to take the baby home to her residence and give John the loving attention he needs.

Nurses at the hospital admit they cannot give John the special individual attention which babies require.

Registered Nurse Carolyn Lichty Begue, said the nurses will play with Johnny when they have the time and are not busy with other duties.

She says a secretary in the nursery has grown very fond of Johnny and spends enough time with the baby so that he recognizes her when she approaches his crib.

"It's still not the individualized attention that a normal child would get from his mother," Begue said.

"He is living more of an institutionalized life," she added.

John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Santalla Jr. of Waveland, do not have the space in their trailer which John would need if he were to be taken home.

Nurses in the hospital say the doctors would only allow John to be taken home if the parents or grandmother can supply what the hospital now has to offer.

The environment will have to be a sterile one at home. No visitors will be allowed in an isolated room unless they also take precautions to prevent germ contamination.

Oxygen equipment would also be purchased and set up in the home to meet Johnny's special breathing needs.

Bourgeois said she can convert her former beauty salon in Waveland to the sterile environment needed.

The problem is money.

Bourgeois said hospital bills for Johnny's care have already exceeded $4,000.

"That's not including the doctor's bill," she added.

The equipment needed at home is Mrs. Page, wife of Clarence Page, was a native of Columbia and had been a resident of the Coast for most of her life. She was a member of the Pentecostal faith.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons, George Pierce and Robert Page, Gulfport; six daughters, Mrs. Pat (Elizabeth) Sullivan, Mrs. Grover (Clara) Strawser, Mrs. Bill (Shirley) Hammett and Mrs. Bill (Hazel) Pierce, all of Gulfport; Mrs. Nick (Julie) Antunica, Pass Christian and Mrs. Bill (Cathy) McLain, Ocean Springs; one stepson, Ray Page, Gulfport; one sister, Mrs. Evelyn Bullock, Columbia; 24 grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Riemann Memorial Funeral Home, U.S. 49, North, was in charge of arrangements.

The funeral was Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the funeral home chapel, followed by burial in the Dobson Cemetery, O'Neal Road.

MRS. NAN ROBINSON
Mrs. Nan Robinson, 93, a resident of Pass Christian, died Tuesday, June 16, 1981 in Pass Christian.

The body was sent from Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis to Osborn Funeral Home in Shreveport, La., for services and burial.

RICHARD TOMLINSON JR.
Richard Eugene Tomlinson Jr., 24, of 1006 Finley St., Long Beach, died Monday, June 15, 1981 in St. Genevieve, Mo.

A native of Biloxi, Mr. Tomlinson was a construction worker and a Methodist. He had served in the U.S. Navy.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Tomlinson Sr. of Long Beach; a brother, Don Tomlinson of Long Beach; a sister, Mrs. Claire Ward of Long Beach; paternal grandparent, Effie Tomlinson of Wiggins; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Irma Pucher of Bay St. Louis.

Graveside services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the National Cemetery in Biloxi.

Riemann Funeral Home, Gulfport, is in charge of arrangements.

expected to cost some $3,000.

Although Begue said the oxy hood is not that expensive, she stated a major cost is required for the oxygen itself and the equipment needed to pump and regulate the oxygen flow.

Both nurses and Bourgeois agree that the best place for any baby is out of the hospital in a home where special motherly attention can be given to the baby's needs.

Bourgeois feels she can do that if she has the money to buy the equipment. She said the state health department will pay some of the cost but admits, "I just don't have the money."

In addition Johnny will need further surgery to remove a tumor on his neck. A double hernia also requires surgery.

Presently doctors are waiting until he is older and his lungs stronger before they will operate.

Bourgeois is convinced she can help Johnny get stronger if she can take him out of the hospital and bring him home.

The Moran Family, a gospel singing group, is staging a benefit performance for Johnny this Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Assembly of God Church in Waveland.

Bourgeois has also established a John Santalla Jr. benefit fund in Hancock Bank in Bay St. Louis in hopes that anyone who cares about the baby's welfare will be willing to donate.

details on what those owners are currently paying.

Johnson also is requesting initial residential connection fee be raised from $15 to $400.

A commercial connection increase from the $15 to $800 is also requested.

The spokesman said the rate increases are only requested.

"That does not mean the commission will approve them," he stated.

A sales contract shows Richard J. Planchard, the current owner of the system, agrees to sell the system for some $80,000.

The contract also states Johnson agrees to pay any outstanding Small Business Association loans incurred by Planchard.

The amount of money involved in those loans, if any, could not be determined.

Upon approval of the sale by the commission, Johnson agrees to pay some $2,000 for installing water meters, some $12,000 in chlorinating the system, and also agrees to expend some $4,500 in installing chain link fences to protect water wells and appliances from vandalism.

Supervisors deny remark

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday denied any board member ever said that a hole some 1,500 feet offshore in Waveland was shaped like a watermelon in reference to why some 25 people, mostly black, have drowned there in the last ten years.

Phillip Williams, a black man from Waveland who said he represented himself, addressed the board concerning an editorial in The Sea Coast Echo which alleged the 'watermelon' remark was made at a supervisor's meeting two weeks ago.

"I have several questions concerning what was said here. I want to know why it was said and who said that was the reason why so many blacks have died there," Williams said.

Alton A. (Dolph) Kellar, board president, replied, "I heard no reference during a board meeting concerning that. I am just as disturbed as you are about it."

Bert Courge, board member, stated, "I think the editorial was a discredit to the people who have been trying to correct the problem."

Courge stated the board has attempted to remedy the hole problem as well as attempting to halt the number of traffic fatalities occurring on Hwy. 603.

"We requested the state to change that (Hwy. 603 from a two lane to a four lane highway) too. It is the same situation as the hole. We don't have the authority."

Michael Necaise, board secretary, stated, "If anybody made that statement it was not made in any official capacity."

Necaise said, if the comment was made it was made as a joke. "Like a honky or a dago joke...If it was said I can assure you it was not said detrimentally. I don't see why it was written in that context."

Courge said the article 'insinuated' racist attitude and implied that attitude was the reason why nothing has been done to halt the problem.

"I think someone would have to be sick to want to see someone drown because of race. If we had the authority we would resolve the problem regardless of race."

Necaise added he believed the article was 'trying to be helpful...to stir up tension to try and get something done.'

In other business, the board heard a request from Roy Johnson, a representative from Kidde Consultants of New Orleans, to pay the company $18,000 for its work in developing a '201 study' for a regional wastewater plan. Johnson said 75 percent of the cost for the study was supposed to be paid by the Environmental Protection Agency with Waveland and The Pearl River Basin Development District each paying 12.5 percent.

The study was completed in 1977 and Johnson said this payment was the final payment.

Board member James Travira said, "We (the county) were not supposed to pay for that plan."

The board took the matter under advisement until the next meeting.

Johnson said Tuesday, the engineering firm has billed the county

Coroner rules suicide

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Suicide has been ruled in the death of a Bay St. Louis woman.

Chief Douglas Williams of the Bay St. Louis Police Department Wednesday afternoon reported Beatrice Reung, 70, of Bay Royale Apartments No. 45 was found dead at 11:40 a.m. that day.

"She lived alone and a neighbor, Jake Clee, notified apartment manager Harold (Bob) Torgeren that the woman had not been seen for a day or so," Williams said.

The police chief said the woman was found sitting on her living room sofa with a plastic bag over her head.

He added that the woman's insurance papers, cemetery plot information and checkbook were found 'neatly arranged' on a table in the room.

Hancock County Coroner Carl Banderet confirmed late Wednesday afternoon that suicide was cause of death.

Assisting Banderet in an investigation of the woman's death were Investigator Matt Karl, Patrolman Harris Boudreaux and Williams.

DEAD MAN FOUND

A Waveland man was found dead in his home, apparently the victim of a heart attack.

Banderet said the body Joseph C. McManus, 82, of Barlow Street was discovered by a neighbor Monday morning.

The coroner said McManus lived alone and that no foul play was suspected.

Banderet reported the Waveland man apparently died in his sleep from cardiac arrest.

Assisting Banderet in an investigation was Chief Donald Dorn, Investigator Sandra Henley and Patrolman John Wilkerson, all of the Waveland Police Department.

in the past, who in turn has been reimbursed by the either the EPA, Waveland or the district.

Also during the Monday meeting in the county courthouse, the supervisors agreed to have the board engineer consult with the Klin Fire Department to determine easements on Fire Tower and Rocky Hill Road needed by the district to implement 'phase II' of water distribution work in that area.

Haas said most of the easements were obtained from private individuals but that some of the owners could not be reached and it will be necessary to obtain county owned easements in some areas.

In further business, the board:

—Heard a request from John Ladner, county election commissioner, to remedy an inequity which he said exists in the number of citizens represented by each Hancock County School Board member.

Ladner said one school board member represents 533 people and another represents 2,900.

The board said the county Justice Court Judges, the school board and their own board is being considered for redistricting.

—Directed Edward Murtagh, county tax collector-assessor, to obtain three bids to secure insurance on all maps and materials gathered by his office during the county reappraisal project;

Appointed Bobby Boudin, county civil defense director, to Gulf Coast Emergency Medical District.

Boudin informed the board before his appointment that the federal government wishes to cut back assistance to cities for 'clean-up work' following a disaster. He said Mobile received some $100 million from the government to repair damage caused by Hurricane Frederick. Boudin said the government is attempting to pass a bill which would require cities to pay 25 percent of the clean-up money. He requested the supervisors write state's federal congressmen to 'Make sure' the government pays 100 percent like it has in the past.

"If Mobile had had to pay 25 percent of that $100 million it would have wiped them out," he said; —Accepted two bids for construction of a pre-cast concrete bridge in Shoreline Park on Lagan Street. One $21,001 bid from Crown Equipment company is for the actual construction and a $10,815 bid from American United Products Corporation of Natchez is for the materials and delivery to the site.

—Gave final approval after receiving word from state officials to exempt Crystal Oil Company from paying county property taxes. James Pfeiffer, board secretary, said this was 'normal procedure' and is done to provide incentive for companies to locate in the area. He said the company will be exempt for the next ten years.

Heard a request from Mary Caillier, secretary-treasurer of the Hancock County Park Commission, to repair Texas Flat Road, an access road to McCleod Park. Caillier said attendance at the park has dropped this summer, especially the number of trailers hooking up to facilities in the park. She stated she felt many of the campers were turning back after attempting to drive into the park along the bumpy access road.

"They are tearing their trailers up trying to get in," she said;

Reappointed Victor Green and Wayne Ducomb Sr. to the Hancock County Planning Commission;

—Accepted the only bids of $289 from Electrocom Inc. of New Orleans for six pocket pagers and $182 from Zee Medical Service Company of Gulfport for an 'extricating device' for Diamondhead Fire Department.

—Withdrew bids received for a backstop at a baseball park in the Catahoula community after Board Member Sam Perniclaro stated there is a problem in acquiring a lease on some of the land on which the park is located.

Playgrounds schedule arts and crafts, tennis classes

Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds co-ordinator Billy Rhodes reports arts and crafts registration will be Monday from 8 to 10 a.m. at Valena C. Jones Center.

Classes will be held each Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 8 to 10 a.m.

All children ages 8-12 are encouraged to participate.

Tennis registration and practice for ages 12-16 will be Monday from 8 to 10 a.m. at the St. Stanislaus tennis courts.

Brother Pascal of St. Stanislaus will instruct the six week long tennis program.

Ages 7-11 will register and practice at the Bay High tennis courts on Tuesday, from 8 to 10 a.m.

Classes will be held each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday morning from 8 to 10 a.m. This five week program will be instructed by Ann Johnson.

Tennis tournaments and the awarding of trophies by age group has been planned for the last week of the program.

"All boys and girls ages 7-16 are encouraged to take part in the tennis programs being offered this summer," Rhodes added.

Annual mineral show slated in Rice Pavillion

By JOE PILET

Sponsored by the Harrison County Gem and Mineral Society, a large, free-to-the-public, Gem and Mineral Show will begin at 9 a.m. Friday and continue through Sunday in Gulfport.

Some 28 dealers participating in the show will set up tables in Gulfport Small Craft Harbor's Rice Pavilion. Mrs. Isom Hayes, president of the sponsoring organization, said dealers are registered from several states including Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana.

Interesting and educational demonstrations will feature the sonic tumbler method for polishing gem stones, sand bottle art, faceting gem stones, cutting cabochons, and wire-working.

Randall Cornelius, well known in gem stone circles, will demonstrate wire-working and is considered a major attraction as is Dave Weaver whose display case will exhibit some fine examples of faceting.

The Elmo Nolans, top crafts people in sand painting and residents of Pass Christian, have developed numerous new designs which will be on exhibit.

Bits 'n pieces

It seems some folks have no respect for pedestrians, especially those in the vicinity of the Bay St. Louis post office.

Joe Buccola reports that he had to go home and change clothing Tuesday because someone hit a puddle of water and splashed him. We have had to jump back ourselves on several occasions to keep from being splashed.

It looks like drivers could be a little more courteous, especially when puddles of water are on the street.

We noted shrimp boats of all sizes Wednesday morning in the sound on a trip to Long Beach.

Shrimping seems to be bigger this year with the sportsmen than we can ever recall.

Most of the reports we have received indicate it will be a banner year in total catch.

The shrimp hardly stand a chance with so many boats after them. Some of the boats being used are really too small, because of the sudden changes in the weather at this time of the year.

The auditorium at the Waveland Civic Center was packed Saturday night for Triton's second annual Talent and Variety Show.

Everyone attending really enjoyed the fine show and delicious snacks provided by Triton members. We really enjoyed ourselves.

As you all know, Triton's Mardi Gras parade rolls down US-90 through Waveland and Bay St. Louis on Mardi Gras Day.

We understand the gumbo is being prepared as well as the boiled shrimp and other goodies for the Annual Church Fair at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Clermont Harbor. The fair is a joint effort of St. Ann's and St. John's of Lakeshore.

In a conversation with Judge Lee Klein, he reports that he and his family are getting the grill ready for the hamburgers and hot dogs for the Friday and Saturday event.

The fair this year will be only on Friday and Saturday starting at 5:30 p.m. each night.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

The Mississippi Health Care Association, which represents the nursing homes of Mississippi, has been informed that Governor Winter has issued a special proclamation commending nursing homes for the quality of care being rendered to the elderly of the State and calls on all Mississippians to join with him in special recognition of nursing homes during National Nursing Home Week.

Don Felts, president of Mississippi Health Care Association, pointed out that nursing homes represent a major industry for many small communities.

Approximately 12,000 individuals are employed in the 170 homes around the state.

Over $140 million annually goes into direct and indirect salaries. Another $7 million plus in sales tax is generated.

Felts urges all citizens to visit their nursing home during the week of May 10-17 and view first hand how important these facilities are to the local community.

Governor William Winter, who served in the Philippines during World War II and later served in the Mississippi National Guard, inspected training operations and military facilities at the state's National Guard Camp at Camp Shelby last week.

Camp Shelby serves as a field training center for National Guard Units in Mississippi and throughout the South.

After a briefing, Winter spent the day with the troops in the field. He toured artillery, armor and engineering units during the day and ate lunch in the field with the 61st Field Artillery.

Winter praised the efforts of Adjutant General Cohen Robertson and his staff to upgrade the readiness and professionalism of Mississippi Guard units through the training regimen at Camp Shelby.

Under a training program now in effect Mississippi Guard units train jointly with units of the regular United States Army. Winter called this a common sense approach to increasing the fighting ability and combat readiness of the U.S. Army.

Later in the week Winter left for New York where he met with top executives of several high technology industries who have an interest in locating plants in Mississippi.

Economic development is the top priority of Governor Winter's administration.

George Parsons, director of the Governor's Office of Planning and Policy, has been elected head of the Southern Council of State Planning Agencies.

The council, an affiliate organization of the Southern Governors' Association, is comprised of representatives from 20 states and is designed to provide an opportunity for the directors of state planning agencies to improve their technical and administrative capabilities through communication and joint research.

Stings can be fatal to some

With the summer increase in outdoor activities comes once again the hazard of bees and wasps.

For most of us the venom of a stinging insect hurts and is annoying, but is not a serious health problem. For some the bee sting can kill. Those are the individuals who are allergic to stings. Insect stings cause more deaths yearly than snake bites, says the American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care.

Soothing lotions such as calamine or a paste of baking soda and a little water are often helpful in relieving discomfort.

Those allergic to insect stings suffer from a condition known as anaphylactic shock. It can occur sometimes from only one sting if the victim has been stung previously.

Insect sting shock symptoms include severe swelling in other parts of the body, such as around the eyes, lips and tongue.

Weakness, coughing or wheezing, severe itching, stomach cramps, nausea and vomiting, anxiety, difficulty in breathing, dizziness, collapse, unconsciousness and hives or rash over the body often follow quickly after the sting.

It is important to open an airway and restore breathing. Some experts suggest using a tourniquet in severe reactions where life might be at stake.

Emergency insect sting kits are available only by prescription. Sometimes contain a tourniquet. It can be used only if the sting is on an arm or leg. Don't tie it too tight and loosen every five minutes until medical help arrives. A watchband or best can serve as a tourniquet.

Place cold compresses on the sting area. Keep the victim lying down unless he is short of breath. Then let him sit up. Keep victim quiet and comfortable. If a first aid kit for insect stings is available use it according to the directions.

The most common stinging insects are bees, hornets, wasps, yellow jackets, bumble bees and fire ants. The sting causes pain, swelling, redness, itching and burning.

If stung by a honey bee, carefully remove the stinger by gently scraping with a knife blade or finger nail.

Wash with soap and water. Place ice wrapped in cloth or cold compresses on the sting area.

Responsibility for community's abandoned and strayed animals falling on same few

June 15, 1981
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

Over the weekend someone had the occasion to leave two puppies in the 100 block of Washington Street.

When my husband and I examined them we found them to be covered with ticks and welts from apparent beatings. As if this wasn't enough, they were literally nothing but skin and bones.

As for whoever did this to these puppies, I have nothing to say to that person — the Lord God will take care of them in his own way.

I spoke to Mrs. Lollie Backlund of the Humane Society and she told me how to treat the ticks and she informed me that I could call the dogcatcher on Monday morning.

I then spoke to Lucy Tell, who has just resigned the warden position. This good woman and her husband came to our house on a Sunday afternoon and found the puppies to be infested with hookworms which were bleeding them to death.

She and her husband are now nursing these pups back to health at their own time and expense.

They also are currently maintaining some 15 other dogs and some 20 cats — all at their own expense.

Now, Bay St. Louis, instead of sitting around talking about where to put the animal shelter or where not to put it — let's get it done.

These people and the ladies of the Humane Society should not have to pay for this out of their own pockets.

If anyone can find room in their hearts to adopt one of these dogs, please do so.

And if anyone can find enough in their pockets to buy a sack of dog food for Mrs. Tell, please do so.

If you are interested in seeing that these dogs and cats have food, please call me at 467-4476 and I will see to it. Remember, no one person should have to shoulder this responsibility.

Thank you,
Gerald Richardson

PRESERVING FARMLAND IS IMPORTANT MISSION

A subject of increasing national concern is how to make sure that enough farmland remains available to grow the food necessary to feed the American people and almost half the world.

It is likely that competing demands will be placed on the agriculture land base in the coming decade because of "urbanization" of rural lands and increasing worldwide interest in U.S. farm products.

From 1967 to 1977, estimates indicated that between 12 million and 30 million acres of rural land in the U.S. were converted to more urban uses.

These uses include residential, industrial and commercial development, railroads and highways, and recreation facilities such as parks and reservoirs.

There is a general consensus that the capability of farmers to feed the American people is not threatened by conversion of farmland to other uses. But the consensus breaks down over the question of the future U.S. capacity to meet the high food and fiber export demand by the year 2000.

Already, 48 states have enacted laws, proposed studies or pursued a range of alternatives to encourage farmland retention. Among them:

—Provision of preferential property tax assessments;
—Inheritance or estate tax relief for heirs of farmland;

—Special treatment of capital gains on profits from the sale of farmland.

In 1970, production of 59 major crops used 289 million acres of land in the U.S., and the figure had risen to 337 million acres by 1979. This marked increase was due mostly to growing overseas markets, and demand may grow even stronger if the worldwide food shortage persists.

To states like Mississippi with a strong agricultural economy, the preservation of farmland is an important issue. Mississippi farmers who depend on the land for a living and, in turn, provide the bulk of our food, must be given incentives and encouragement to keep producing.

The retention of farmland has been a subject of debate in Congress for several years. Legislative proposals intended to resolve the issue were debated during the last three congressional sessions, but either defeated or not voted on.

One reason is that this matter traditionally has been in the hands of state and local officials. Even an 18-month study, whose results were released in 1980 found that the more successful farmland preservation programs were those in which state government played a major role.

Working the land has long been an almost sacred trust in America. I hope the federal government's role continues to be a minor one as state and local officials work to solve whatever problems exist in this area.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

President's Challenge

CLINTON—The nation's founders theorized and then put into practice the system of government they believed would work best.

"The representative democracy they constructed has proven itself these past two centuries," Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) told an audience here Monday on the campus of Mississippi College.

"Those who founded our country had the intellect to construct our form of government and the courage, integrity and determination to put it into effect under very difficult circumstances and make it work," he said.

The Senator's comments came at the second annual McLemore Lectureship, held in honor of the late Dr. R.A. McLemore, former president of the college, and his wife. Dr. and Mrs. McLemore were instrumental in establishing the American Studies Seminar at the Clinton Institution.

Senator Cochran discussed with those attending the lectureship the new Reagan administration, the new Republican Senate, and the dynamics of government in Washington at the present time.

"The elections of 1980, the presidential and senatorial results, marked a watershed year in American politics. The impact at the polls is being compared by political scientists to those of 1932 and 1980. History will reveal whether they affect the course of our national government as dramatically as many have forecast," he commented.

Senator Cochran said he was "enthusiastic about serving in the United States Senate at this particular time in our history, because we do have the opportunity to make a significant contribution to shaping the direction the nation will take these next few years."

He pointed out that major economic, social, defense and foreign policy decisions are being debated and formulated in Washington this year.

SOCIAL SECURITY DILEMMA

How best to maintain the integrity of the Social Security system is one of the most perplexing problems facing Congress.

Almost everybody agrees the Social Security system faces serious trouble in the very near future unless corrective action is taken to maintain its solvency and protect those who have worked and paid into the system, expecting to receive benefits.

The question is: How do we keep the system from going bankrupt without penalizing beneficiaries or overburdening the individual taxpayers now paying into the system?

Blaming past administrations, or previous Congresses for the sickness of Social Security will not solve the current and future problems.

With that in mind, the Senate has voted unanimously to seek a comprehensive, bipartisan solution to the Social Security crisis facing the country.

The chief concern of almost every member of the Senate is to protect the benefits recipients are entitled to, and to bring the Social Security retirement fund out of the red before it goes broke.

From the Senate, and from sentiment, the House of Representatives has made it obvious the Congress will move slowly on any proposal that would alter the laws affecting eligibility for benefits.

It is one thing to criticize suggestions as being unacceptable, but it is another thing to construct alternatives that are financially sound, and, at the same time, fair to current and future recipients of Social Security benefits.

The most tragic alternative would be to refuse to face the fact that Social Security will be in jeopardy unless something is done very soon to insure its future stability.

Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Congressman Jake Pickle, chairman of the House subcommittee directly concerned with Social Security, have already begun work in concert with Administration officials to draft a comprehensive reform of the system. These committees have legislative jurisdiction over Social Security, and the action they propose will have the "great bearing on the ultimate course Congress chooses."

Some experts have advised that an immediate, or short-term upgrading of the retirement fund would be to adjust the formula which allocates a percentage of the Social Security tax to the hospitalization and disability funds. They are in the black, while the retirement fund is facing a substantial deficit, possibly by the end of next year.

Others have advocated dipping into general fund revenues, at least on a temporary basis, to shore up the ailing retirement program. Still another possibility involves increases in the Social Security tax.

There have been suggestions that the cost of living increases made annually be computed on a different, less costly basis, while a very controversial proposition has been to reduce the benefits allowed those who take early retirement.

Finally, one proposal has been to raise the retirement age from 65 to 68, and also to remove the ceiling on allowable earned income after becoming eligible for Social Security.

I have outlined these various alternatives to show that there is no clear consensus on how best to approach the Social Security dilemma. Everybody seems to have their own idea, but almost everybody's idea has some drawbacks.

Congress will have to assess the Social Security crisis and very carefully construct a solution that will maintain the system's solvency while keeping faith with those who have come to depend on it and have contributed in good faith to it for many years.

It will not be an easy task, but it is one which is absolutely necessary.

Vietnam memorial makes victims of war heroes

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, entitled 'A MEMORIAL' by Gary Schmitt, a U.S. Senate staff member, is provided to The Sea Coast Echo by Public Research, Syndicated of Claremont, Calif.

Another Memorial Day has come and passed. Or, more accurately, another Memorial three-day weekend has come and gone.

Turning civic holidays into days designed for private political pursuits now seems to be an American pastime.

Indeed, if the TV news people were not there to cover the local wreath-laying, it is doubtful whether there would be any public perception at all of the original intent of the day.

Like Lincoln's and Washington's Birthday,

Memorial Day has bitten the dust.

It is not surprising, then, that the newest proposed capital monument, the Vietnam Memorial, should be of the same a-political genre.

Under the aegis of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund a jury composed of two architects, two landscape architects, three sculptors and one design critic met in early May to select a design for a memorial which would commemorate those who had died in the Vietnam War.

Out of some 1,400 entries the jury chose a design submitted by Maya Ying Lin, a 21 year-old Yale undergraduate.

Her proposal for the memorial is for two, black granite walls to be wedged into the earth to form a stark, V-shaped retaining wall.

Plans are for the memorial to be built on two acres in the northwest corner of the Washington Mall.

With contoured ground surrounding it, the monument will affect the visitor with something akin to the feeling that he has just "stumbled upon it."

According to Lin, the monument is meant to appear as an unexpected, black "rift in the earth."

The structure's color and its sinkhole character will be in striking contrast to the white, upright monuments toward which the wings of the Vietnam Memorial will point - the Washington Memorial and the Lincoln Memorial.

Never appearing over the horizon of the Mall, the monument's dominant theme seems to be: "Out of sight, out of mind." Or, when in sight: an abyss.

On the black granite walls the names of the 57,892 men who died in the war will be carved. The names are not to appear in alphabetical order.

Instead, they are to be etched into the stone in a chronological sequence, the sequence in which the individuals died.

The list will begin on one wall at the vertex of the 'V,' go to the end, pick up on the end of the other wall and end at the vertex.

This facet of the design has been described as indicating that the "war's beginning and end thus meet. The war is 'complete.'"

But, of course, it is not complete. How can the memorial be complete and make no mention at all of Vietnam? The listing could be of traffic fatalities for all the untutored observer might know. Undifferentiated paths appears to be the object.

The mere listing of the names and the absence of any specific reference to the war is consistent with the Fund's charge to the jury to select a design that would make no political statement about the war.

The memorial was to be at once a-political and something which "best honors the memory..." Yet is the bare fact that one has died, removed entirely from the context in which it happens, something to honor? After all, we all do die sooner or later.

The assumption undoubtedly lurking behind the instruction given the jury is that the war was simply a waste. To quote the words of former president Jimmy Carter, it was an effort of "intellectual and moral poverty." The tragedy was not that the war was lost but that it was ever begun. Those who died, died without reason.

The Vietnam Memorial will be, in the final analysis, a monument to victims. It will not be a monument to men who died for an unsuccessful yet essentially correct cause.

It is no small irony that this selection, with its victim motif, should occur only a few short months after the fanfare directed toward the American hostages who were held in Iran.

The latter were truly victims and yet they were treated as heroes. We should be capable of seeing the difference.

Lin's design robs the dead of the context that gives meaning to their deaths. Her design, minimal in nature, reflects a minimal understanding of war and of memorials that follow them.

It is not true, as one of the jurors stated, that a "confused world needs simple answers." To abstract the soldiers' deaths from the war only serves to minimize the sacrifices that they made.

The historical truth that the Republic of South Vietnam was finally overrun by a resolute and malevolent enemy from the north hardly substantiates the claim that the war and the deaths that occurred were simply meaningless.

Without a doubt, the way in which the war was carried out and the way in which it ended were tragic.

Yet that fact should not overwhelm and certainly cannot invalidate the moral conviction that guided the American attempt to contain the advance of communism and totalitarianism.

In light of the events which have transpired in Indochina since 1975 that conviction should only be stronger.

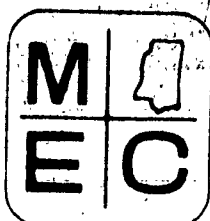

The Vietnam Memorial should reflect that conviction. It should not minimize the deaths by being a-political, by being a-memorial.

NEWS

Recent reports of federal, state, and local investigations of Mississippi county government activities point, once again, to the need for change in the administration of county affairs.

Mississippi's county government structure, designed in the 1800s, is in critical need of modernization if the state's 20th century citizens are to be provided efficient services at a price they can afford.

The state's county governments have become a billion-dollar-a-year business, but their structures have changed little since enactment of the 1890 Constitution. By modern standards, this structure contains many facets incapable of meeting the needs of present-day Mississippi in an efficient, cost-effective manner.

A carefully researched set of recommendations to streamline and modernize county government has been published by the Mississippi Economic Council, the largest association of business and professional leadership in the state.

The study, "County Government, Mississippi - A Model Plan for the Twenty-First Century," calls for restructuring the system.

MEC's model plan recommends that the board of supervisors should be a part-time, policy-making body divested of administrative duties.

Responsibility for the daily affairs of county government should be vested in an administrative officer appointed by the board of supervisors in each county. This administrative officer, in turn, should appoint the various administrative officers whose positions are now filled by the election process. These appointments would be approved by the board of supervisors.

Positions recommended for removal from the ballot and subject to appointment include the sheriff, tax assessor-collector, clerk of the courts, clerk of the board of supervisors, and coroner. These recommendations and others in the MEC study were designed to provide clear lines of authority and accountability throughout the structure of county government - qualities the present systems lack.

Mississippians must prepare now for the 21st century, and modernizing the state's county governments should be a pressing priority.

TEACHERS - KEY TO QUALITY EDUCATION

The quality of education for future Mississippi students received a boost when the state College Board initiated action to raise admission requirements for teacher education program candidates by 1983 - a move long needed and long overdue.

Until now, each state-supported university was allowed to set its own standards for admission to schools of education. A comparison reveals widely differing standards from school to school.

Many elements enhance the quality of a child's educational experience, but no factors have greater influence in the learning process than quality personnel providing effective instruction in the classroom.

Book Review

A History of Mississippi, edited by the late R.A. McLeary, is once again back in print.

Originally released in 1973 and now in its third printing, this two-volume history has continued to be in public demand. It is the most comprehensive and scholarly history of Mississippi ever recorded. The two volumes comprise 1,184 pages and 94 pages of photographs.

The 43 chapters cover every aspect of Mississippi history from earliest times to the present. Each was written by an outstanding Mississippi historian or specialist in a field of study. Over half of the contributors are professionally trained historians, and the others are authorities in such fields as geography, anthropology, sociology, religion, law, education, journalism, agriculture, literature, and business.

It is now again in bookstores or can be ordered directly from the publisher, University Press of Mississippi, 303 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, Ms. 39211, at $35 per set, plus Mississippi sales tax.

Drugs stolen from Bay store

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Law enforcement officials estimate prescription medicine with a street value exceeding $3,000, were stolen Saturday or Sunday from a Bay St. Louis drug store.

Investigator Matt Karl of the City Police Department Tuesday said at least two or three people were apparently involved in a breakin which he speculated occurred sometime between 11 p.m. Saturday and 5 a.m. Sunday at Fahey Drug Store on the corner of Railroad and Keller Avenues.

Karl said the thieves gained entrance to the closed store by cutting a hole in the back wall of the building.

He noted a cosmetic counter was apparently overturned as the burglars entered the establishment.

"We found they broke into the store by using a saw and pry-bar which we found behind the building," the investigator reported.

Karl would not reveal the types of drugs stolen from the store due to an investigation now underway.

However, Karl said the amount of damages and money and drugs stolen totalled about $500.

Investigator Alvin Ladner of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, a narcotics specialist assisting in the investigation, Wednesday estimated the street value of the drugs to be at least $3,000.

ATTORNEY ROBBED

Some $5,000 in cash and checks were apparently stolen from the office of Bay St. Louis Attorney William Stuart late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Stereo equipment and a revolver were recently recovered by police from a previous breakin. A Bay St. Louis man was arrested and charged with the theft of the attorney's office located at the corner Gex and Main Streets.

Karl late Wednesday afternoon said police are now eyeing a suspect in the money theft and an arrest is expected soon.

FURNITURE RECOVERED

Bay police Tuesday recovered furniture stolen from a Upton Avenue apartment owned by McDonald Realty. Karl reported two bedroom dressers and one mirror were removed from the apartment Saturday and recovered at Bayside Apartments.

He said an investigation is underway and an arrest is expected.

FUGITIVE RETURNS

A Louisiana man who escaped Friday from Bay police while being booked, turned himself in Monday at the County Sheriff's office.

Everett K. Mitchell, 21, of 544 Folse St. in Riveridge, La., escaped while he and Kenneth J. Quintini, 25, of 6212 Waldo St. in New Orleans were each being charged with possession of a controlled substance and less than one ounce of marijuana.

Mitchell has now also been charged with 'simple escape.'

Both men have been released on $2,500 bond and were scheduled for a hearing Wednesday night in City Court.

The two were arrested by Patrolman Chris Sand Friday night. The officer stopped a car the men were riding in for reportedly being operated in a reckless manner.

Chief Douglas Williams recently stated 'two lids of marijuana' and some black pills were found by Sand on the automobile's dashboard.

INDECENT EXPOSURE EYED

A Gulfport woman is scheduled to appear in Waveland City Court Thursday night facing an indecent exposure charge by police.

Katherine Marie Cannoy, 30, of 1704 21st Ave. in Gulfport was charged after she allegedly took her two-piece bathing suit top off while on the beach near the corner of Beach Boulevard and Nicholson Avenue Sunday afternoon.

Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department this week said people at the beach reported the woman was romping topless at about 3 p.m.

"When the officer went out, she put the top on, and she kept taking it on and off," Dorn stated.

Cannoy was booked and released on a $100 property bond.

CHARGES REDUCED; DROPPED

Charges of grand larceny were dropped against three women and reduced to petit larceny against another woman in Bay City Court recently.

Patricia L. Loyd, 25; Carla G. Hyde, 19; Jean L. Page, 22; and Victoria A. Casanova, 40, were all recently booked with grand larceny charged by James Page, also of Bay St. Louis who was previously cited with simple assault. Grand larceny charges were dropped against Loyd; Hyde and Casanova, but Jean Page's citation was reduced to petit larceny.

City Judge Joseph Benvenuti Monday said James Page was found guilty, but a $50 fine was suspended. The judge said all the charges arose from a family dispute.

Hospital.....CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

Langston look further into cost estimates on the additional 60-hour a week coverage. During week days the emergency room is covered by local staff doctors and they have to be called from their offices to see emergency patients.

Many times they have to leave an office filled with patients waiting to see them.

Mike Holford, controller at HGH, reported a good collection total for the month of May.

The controller stated that the use of four collection agencies, two large and two small ones, is helping collect many of the old delinquent accounts due the hospital.

Holford said, "The normal average is from .5 to two percent for bad debts and that HGH is about eight to ten percent and I am not happy. We are doing everything we can to get the bad debt figures down."

All insurance billings are up to date, according to the controller.

Langston also told the trustees he had made contact with a member from the Gulf Regional Planning Commission who told him that the agency is working with the county engineers on the parking problems at HGH.

One of the rooms at HGH has been refurnished with the exception of the installation of the new drapes, according to the administrator.

The hospital workers volunteered and did the installing of the wallpaper, base moulding and painting of the entrance to the room.

Langston added, "We have had about six individuals and organizations who have donated money for the purchase of supplies for the room refinishing. I have also received a response from the Mississippi Gulf Coast Building Construction Trades Occupational Training Center, the same people who are working at the county courthouse."

The training center was contacted on the possibility of them supplying the labor for the refinishing of the rooms.

Langston said the cost of supplies was $350 for private and $450 for semi-private rooms.

Cleaning efforts throughout the facility, according to Rev. Charles Johnson, trustee president, "have resulted in big improvements."

The trustees were asked to attend a June 30 meeting with the JCAH survey people.

'Don't Drink the Water' slated at Slidell theater

Minacappelli's Dinner Theatre in Slidell will present Woody Allen's hysterical farce, 'Don't Drink the Water,' opening June 26 for a six week run.

'Don't Drink the Water' is the tale of a Newark, N.J. family who are mistaken for spies while on vacation in Europe behind the Iron Curtain. To escape the Communists, they flee to the local American Embassy, where they encounter a klutzy diplomat, his stuffy assistant, a priest who does magic tricks, a sensitive chef, a dim-witted Secret Police official and a drunken Shah.

Naturally, the daughter falls in love with the klutzy dad; just one more complication to the hilarious plot. All ends well, but not before we are treated to some of Woody Allen's most outrageous situations.

Heading the cast of ten performers is Shiri Cleutau as Marion Hollander. No stranger to area theatregoers, Cleutau is president of Gallery Circle Theatre, and has appeared at Le Petit, Beverly Dinner Playhouse, and was last seen at Minacappelli's in 'Come Blow Your Horn.'

Portraying Father Drobney is Robin Robinson, last seen in 'You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running.' Ken Valentino, as stuffy Kirov, adds another to his list of character performances at Minacappelli's.

Portraying Walter Hollander, Marion's hot-tempered husband, is Bob Kearney. Bob last appeared in 'Winter Chicken,' and last season directed 'A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.'

One woman's defiant resistance to change, coupled with her own inner struggle to recapture an unquestioning faith, provides the source of conflict in 'Catholics,' a 90-minute special to be rebroadcast at 8 p.m. Saturday, June 20, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Anne Favrot and Terry Jamison, both newcomers to Minacappelli's provide the comic love interest, while Greg Beron, last seen at Minacappelli's in 'Three Goats and a Blanket' supplies the menace as the inept Secret Police official.

Also appearing for the first time at Minacappelli's are Jay Malarcher, Charles Ferrara and Nick Keeley.

The production is under direction of Elliott Keener.

with Bob Kearney as technical director and Bret Fowlkes as stage manager.

Performances are on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. preceded by a 6:30 buffet, with a Sunday matinee at 2:30 p.m. preceded by a 1 p.m. buffet.

'Don't Drink the Water' will run through Aug. 9.

Exercise with caution during summer

Warm weather is a time for exercise enthusiasts to be particularly careful. Even the best conditioned athlete can experience hyperthermia.

Heat stroke, heat exhaustion, dehydration and muscle cramps can occur on days when you might not expect it. The rapid rise in body temperature occurs when the body's natural cooling mechanism, evaporation, ceases because the body has lost too much fluid through sweating.

Research says the rate of body fluid loss is not substantially changed from temperatures of 70 degrees and up. In Mississippi, as in many other Southern states, humidity is also a major factor.

A moderate temperature and high humidity can be just as dangerous as high temperature and low humidity.

"In extremely high temperatures, the inexperienced or poorly heat trained individual should limit his or her workout to one-half its normal time or distance," said Dr. Bryan Barksdale, a consultant to the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

"A person training in hot weather should acclimate himself over not less than two weeks to his pre-summer program," Barksdale said.

The warning signs of hyperthermia include nausea, throbbing head, chills, dry skin, giddiness, leg cramps, redness, goose bumps and incoherent speech and thoughts.

Should these symptoms appear, a person should stop exercising and begin replacing the lost body fluids with water.

Several steps should be taken to avoid complications.

1) Take in plenty of fluid—any fluid except sweetened drinks—before, during and after your work-out. The body can sweat twice what it can absorb, so drink all you can.

2) Limit warm-ups—warming up increases body heat and this is not needed.

3) Dress lightly—expose maximum skin to the air for evaporation. Sweating is a key body regulating device. Even a normal T-shirt covers 40 percent of your body surface. Fishnet tops are excellent.

4) Douse yourself with water during your exercise if possible. This helps the sweating mechanism.

5) Avoid "salt loading." The normal American diet provides plenty of salt, and excessive salt can cause intestinal pooling of fluid. This would compound heat problems rather than help them. Also, sweetened fluids stay on your stomach and can cause additional problems.

6) Pay attention to the warning signs. Your body is trying to tell you something. Don't "tough it out."

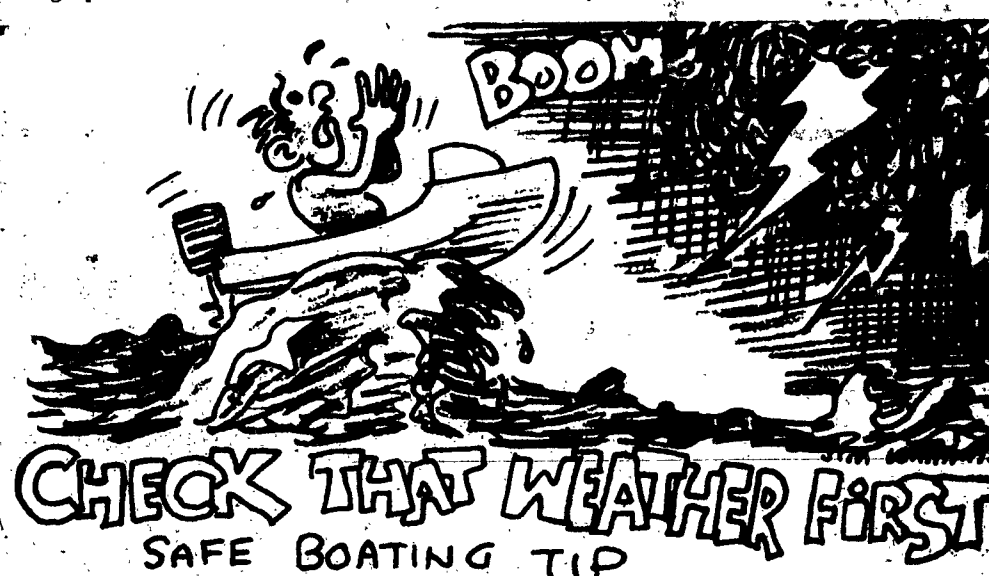

Some other things one should be aware of include eating a well-balanced diet. The body loses more than just water and salt in the sweating process.

Foods such as watermelon, cantaloupe, cucumbers, tomatoes and carrots are high in minerals such as magnesium and potassium—needed to avoid muscle cramps.

Avoid competition that begins late in the morning, especially on days when the humidity is high.

Lighter colored clothing is cooler than dark apparel—and it is more visible to motorists, as well. Cotton clothing "breathes" better than synthetics.

To receive more information on exercise programs, including walking, write the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, 723 North President Street, Suite 450, Jackson, 39201, or call 354-6344.

Three Hancock horses score Oak Downs wins

(Special to The Sea Coast Echo) PEARL RIVER—Three Hancock County horses won races Sunday on a nine-race program at Oak Downs.

In the five-horse, five-furlong first race, Keith Allen, owned by Lesil Dedeaux, of Kiln, broke out of the pack on the backstretch and romped to an easy five-length win.

Keith Allen, ridden by Leo Fricke of Picayune, was clocked in 1:05.39.

Fast Home Run, owned by Donald Cuevas of Kiln, was an easy winner in the 350-yard third race.

Ray Robbins, who had three wins on the day, pushed Fast Home Run to a time of :18.70.

The third Hancock horse visiting the winner's circle was Bayou Beacon, the 3-furlong sixth race winner. Owned by Harlan Mauffray of Kiln, Bayou Beacon ran a :39.34 in beating four other horses.

Carl Bennett Jr. was a mild upset winner in the 250-yard second race by turning back Alvin Smith's Breezy.

Go Punkin' Go, owned by Doug Robbins of Grand Bay, Ala., captured the 350-yard fourth race. Two Times Chickadoo, a Hancock County horse trained by Frank Comfort of Kiln, ran second by one-half length and had his winning streak snapped at four straight.

Tammy's Man, a two-year-old thoroughbred owned by the Jimmie Magee family of Franklinton, won the 440-yard ninth for his second win in as many lifetime starts.

Dave Sullivan of Folsom visited the winner's circle after Poncho took the 400-yard seventh race against April's Injun.

Louis Smith, Oak Downs operator, said the track will put on a shrimp boil Sunday, June 28. The track will be closed Sunday, July 5, because of the Independence Day celebration that weekend.

Riding instructions slated at Pass ranch

Equine Inns in Pass Christian will host a program of riding instruction beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday, July 18. Betty Schermann, of Covington, La., with 25 years experience in riding, training, conditioning, jumping and judging, will conduct this series.

As a charter member and first president of the Louisiana Combined Training Association, Schermann has watched riding grow from backyard "kids" play to Horse Trails, a form of competition for the strong rider and horse—the complete athlete.

"Whether you ride English or Western, the prime foundation is an independent seat and riding in balance with your horse," she said.

"While riding is a competitive sport, most riding is recreational and life-long, which generally starts because we humans have such an attraction to the horse. He is our pet, our dream, our friend, and for many, our business," she continued.

"Horseback riding is a skill that is developed by doing. Coordination, patience and persistence are part of the total picture. Muscles are worked as well as relaxed by riding; riding reduces tensions created in the daily activity of earning a living. You don't have to worry about dieting when you ride regularly," Schermann says.

"The novice, the experienced, the competitor, the timid, the bold, the handicapped and of course all of the otherwise normal people who enjoy horses will benefit from the skills, the friendships, the pleasures and the safety we hope to develop at Equine Inns," she said.

"Make your reservation and bring your horse."

For information, contact Barbara B. O'Meallie, Equine Inns at Asgard, Rt. 2, Box 272J, Pass Christian, 38671, or call (601) 255-7573.

Aquatic Spectacular planned in Hancock

The Mississippi Gulf Coast YMCA and many interested citizens, including Debra Harris of WLOX TV, pooled their time and resources this past weekend to provide free sailing and canoeing to over 40 youths from Hancock and Harrison Counties.

The Aquatic Spectacular held in front of the Friendship Restaurant at Debris Road in Gulfport is part of a program sponsored by the YMCA and Jackson County Board of Supervisors to help children develop new learning experiences through structured activities.

Gene Rogers, program coordinator, said the Aquatic Spectacular was a success in that many of the children who attended had never been exposed to supervised beach and water activities that required special skills.

Rogers said, "Our position is that we can greatly affect local and national statistics by developing and implementing goals to strengthen the ego structure and character in each youth participant through development of competence in special skills, increased awareness of viable options in adopting lifestyles, a sense of belonging, feeling of self worth and decision making power, and knowledge that someone cares."

Rogers said two more such events will be held in July; one in Pascagoula and one in Hancock County.

Times, dates and locations will be announced at a later date, he added.

Parents play vital role in education

Education is everyone's business, but there's a special role for parents.

Education has been called the cornerstone of democracy, and schools have a tremendous responsibility to help students develop the skills they'll need to succeed as adults.

That job can be done best if schools and parents work together. Parents can lay the foundation for their youngsters to have a successful school experience.

Here are nine tips offered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals:

—Help young children learn and use simple words. It's amazing how much vocabulary a three-year-old can develop if given support. Identify familiar objects for children with their names. The sooner young children can communicate simple words and concepts, the sooner they can move to more difficult learning.

—Turn on television programs that teach. There are many that help young children learn to count, the alphabet, and even simple words.

—Listen to young children. This requires patience, but it also encourages youngsters to develop speaking skills.

—Read to children. Reading is so important to education, and parents can emphasize that importance by reading regularly to young children. It will also help them recognize letters and words.

—Take the family on trips that have educational value. Going to the zoo or to a museum can reinforce lessons taught at school. And it's fun for the family.

—Praise students for their success in school. Parents' feelings are important to their children. Students should understand that parents think it's as important to score well on a spelling test as it is to keep their room clean.

—Set aside 20 minutes each weekend when everyone in your home reads. Students will understand that reading is important if parents demonstrate that by their example. And keep plenty of reading materials around your home.

—Establish a quiet place for study in your home. Pollsters tell us that Americans have watched 18,000 hours of television by the time they reach 18 years of age. This compares to 15,000 hours in school. In front of the television is not the best place to do homework. Give your youngster a chance to absorb his or her lessons.

—Let your youngster know that you believe education is important. Parents can do this by taking an interest in what their students are doing in school, by asking questions about what happens in the class, and about school projects. They can also do this by attending school events, such as back-to-school nights and open houses. Joining school support groups, such as music boosters or PTAs, indicate the value you place on education.

The greater the cooperation between the school and home, the better the learning experience for students. Working together we can provide the best possible education for students.

Day School reports year's honor roll

Honor roll students for the 1980-81 school year at Christ Episcopal Day School in Bay St. Louis with an average of 90 percent or better in all major subjects and A's or 'outstanding grade' in all minor subjects are:

—First grade students: Ashley Barnes, Jennifer Carter, Sean Edwards, Pilar Frederick, Aubrey Hyde, Karen Kohl, Michael Lee, Jason Locacano, Linn Montjoy, Dwayne Raphael, Michael Reeves, John Rutherford, Robert Shaw and Blair Shellnut.

—Second grade students: Nicole Bezou, Steven Boike, Mark Huber, Todd Huber, Duncan Matheson, Manning Montagnet, Melissa Nigro, Amy Parrish, Robin Rippetoe, Jennifer Saucier, Dana Stagg, Joe Williams and Kurt Zala;

—Third grade students: Patricia Argus, Anna Burdette, Scott Covode, Kevin Edwards, Billy Guice and Scott Hourin;

—Fourth grade students: Eric Gray, Alison Miller, Rea Montjoy, Richie Redditt, David Seuzeneau, Brook Schultz, Treceia Todd and Casey Wolfe.

—Fifth grade students: Nancy Drury, Cody Riess, Frank Burdette and Alex Helwig; —Sixth grade students: Andrea Ambrose, Parker Deen and Lizette Giles and John Montz.

Honor students with an average of 95 percent or better in all major subjects and A's or outstanding in all minor subjects are:

—Fourth grade students: Terry LeBourgeois, Melinda Miller, Troy Meyers, Peter Neely and Christy Hotz; Reeves and Stephen Montagnet.

A student receiving a certificate of award for her essay was Susannah Shellnut.

The Student Council has been active for a number of years at Christ Episcopal and this year participants worked very hard at —Formulating a constitution and purpose for students in years to come to —Fifth grade students: Michael Vegas, Susannah Shellnut, Stephanie Ewing, Nicole Montagnet and Page Murphy;

—Sixth grade students: Josh Bowles, Michael Neely and Stephen Montagnet.

In late fall of each year the Daughters of the American Revolution sponsor an American history essay contest to encourage students to learn more about their nation's history and leaders.

Students participating in the 1980-81 contest are:

Summer Reading

The 1981 Summer Reading program at the Long Beach Public Library is coordinated by the Mississippi Library Commission in Jackson and directed by Jean Ripoll, the children's librarian.

The program is open to all school children entering the first through sixth grades this fall.

Registration has already begun at the library anytime during regular opening hours.

There will also be someone available for registration on June 14 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at Jeff Davis Elementary School.

Scheduled to begin on June 15, this year's theme is "animal tracks."

Many activities scheduled for this year include films, crafts, stories, and games.

Special guests include George Wright local game warden, and a ranger from the Forestry Commission, bringing with him Smokey the Bear.

A reading contest and a party at the end of the year for those reading the required number of books will be included.

Children participating will receive a book mark, a record of books read, and a reading certificate at the end of the eight week program.

For more information, contact Mrs. Ripoll at the library at 863-0711.

BOOK DONATED—Mrs. John (Fee) Genin, Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary member, and her son Christopher, both at Bay St. Louis, inspect a new children's book at City-County Library in Bay St. Louis recently donated to the Hancock County Library System by the organization. Genin said the organization donates a new book to the library each time an auxiliary member has a child. (Staff photo by Wayne Decomb Jr.)

Nutrition for Today

"Drain the vegetable!" If you're preparing a dinner consisting in part of a beef roast, potatoes and string beans (the frozen variety), you're at all concerned with accuracy in language (and nutrition in your diet), that's not the sort of command you should be shouting about your kitchen. Why not "Throw away the vitamins and minerals!" instead?

Because, after all, that's what really happens.

Many essential nutrients in the food you eat may end up poured down the drain or tossed in the garbage simply because they're not cooked right.

The proteins, carbohydrates and fats (and, thus, calories) will still be there. But the vitamins and minerals may not — particularly those that are water-soluble.

Of the four food groups — milk, meat, fruits and vegetables, grains — foods in the meat and fruits-vegetables groups suffer most when cooked wrong. (Though some grains, like rice, also may lose nutrients when improperly prepared.)

For example, let's say you're preparing a dinner consisting in part of a beef roast, potatoes and string beans (the frozen variety). If you pull the roast from the freezer and place it on a plate to thaw for several hours before cooking, you'll wind up with one beef roast minus the nutrients that dripped out with the meat juices.

And where will they have gone? Odds are they went down the drain.

Potatoes now. Peel them, and you peel away the nutrients in the skins also. Worse, though, you strip them of the raincoats that keep boiling water out — and essential water-soluble vitamins and minerals in.

And if you cook the string beans in a pot of water, then bring them to the sink to "drain the vegetable"...well, you know what that really means.

Here are some ways you can keep those vitamins and minerals in the foods you prepare.

Place frozen meats in the oven when still frozen — not thawed. Use the juices that drip during cooking for basting or making gravy.

Keep trimming and peeling of vegetables to a minimum. Better to scrub than to strip. Also, avoid presoaking.

When cooking frozen vegetables, use just enough water to keep them from burning in the pot. Save the water in which you cook fresh and canned vegetables for soups and gravies. You might also consider buying an inexpensive steamer to slip inside a pot, thereby letting you cook vegetables completely out of the water.

In the end, there are only two things you should do with those nutrients. First, keep them in the foods they come in.

Pass Library showing Frank Murphy exhibit

Frank Murphy is the exhibiting artist at Pass Christian Public Library during the month of June.

Murphy holds a bachelor of fine art in drawing and printing from the University of Southern Mississippi.

He has completed additional study at the Dayton Art Institute and Wright State University, Dayton, Ohio.

His shows have included one-man show at the Center for Photographic Studies, Louisville, Ky. and at Dayton Art Institute, Dayton, Ohio, in 1977; Annual Bi-State Exhibition, Meridian Museum of Art, Meridian, Ms. in 1979, 1980; four Mississippi Artists, Lauren Rogers Museum, Laurel, 1980; Mississippi Artists Annual Show, C. W. Woods Gallery, University of Southern Mississippi, 1981.

His works are included in private collections; Gulf Coast Art Association Collection and Hattiesburg Civil Arts Commission Collection.

Correction

In a listing of honor students for the final nine-week term at St. Clare Elementary School published in the June 7 edition of The Sea Coast Echo, the name of Jerry West was omitted in the Fifth Grade special effort award category.

According to available estimates — 1980 Census data is still tied up in the courts — there are nearly 680,000 women veterans in the U.S., about 2 percent of the veteran population. They are entitled to the same benefits as other veterans.

At last count two years ago, more than 152,000 women veterans had availed themselves of the post-Korean GI Bill, nearly 80 percent of them to attend college.

At that time, there were 23,760 women vets receiving compensation payments from the Veterans Administration for service-connected disabilities and 11,782 receiving VA pensions (based on total disability and financial need).

Since VA hospitals may not be able to furnish the care or services required by women veterans, they may be entitled in certain cases for treatment at VA expense in private hospitals. The exception is normal pregnancy, which is not covered by VA benefits.

Failure to report accident may result in license loss

A driver involved in an automobile accident which results in death or personal injury or property damage in excess of $250 to any person other than himself must file a written report with the Mississippi Department of Public Safety within five days or face loss of the driver license.

The law applies to any driver regardless of where the accident occurs, Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol Chief Donald Butler said.

Persons who fail to file the form may lose a license and have to pay a $25 reinstatement fee.

The law is applicable, Butler said, whether or not the accident occurs on state highways, private property, city streets, county roads or other obscure places.

The correct form on which drivers must report the accident is a SR-1 and is yellow in color.

They may be obtained from the Department of Public Safety, local police departments, sheriffs' offices, patrol district stations in Jackson, Greenwood, Batesville, New Albany, Starkville, Meridian, Hattiesburg, Gulfport and Brookhaven, campus police departments or any Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol Officer.

Each driver must file a report, even if the accident is a one-car rollover if it results in $250 damage or injury to any person other than himself, Butler said, or the driver will face license suspension and $25 reinstatement charge.

School 'drop outs' should become work 'drop ins'

By S. Grady Thigpen

As I have gotten older I have come to realize that constant change is an immutable law of life, and that life is a one way journey.

No two days are ever alike. There is always change.

Life is pretty much like a trip around the world. The people change as one progresses; the scenery changes from day to day, even in slow travel. The climate changes from one section to another; the functions of business change, and customs are never the same from one place to another.

These changes, when made quickly by fast modern travel from one country to another, are startling; but not any more so than the changes in our every day way of living when looked at over a period of years.

In this process of constant change the schools furnish a conspicuous example. In our schools today with every modern advantage offered to pupils—modern buildings, free transportation, highly qualified teachers, well stocked libraries, etc.—it is found that many pupils are indifferent.

To me this attitude is alarming.

Last September I talked to a bright youngster in my store. I asked, "I suppose you are glad to see school start?" He looked at me as if he thought I was "nuts" and said, "I hate it."

In the old days an education was something to be sought for, not something to be sneered at. An education was not available to all back then as it is today, and was consequently much more appreciated.

George Washington who became, largely through his own efforts, an education man had as his first teacher a slave whose other duties included sweeping the house, digging graves when necessary, working in the garden and doing other things. Sixty to 100 years ago the teacher was often a young person with little training.

If he was expert at figures, if he could read the Bible and if he had the will and strength to enforce discipline he was considered a good teacher.

The usual pay for a teacher, even within my memory, was as little as $15 or $20 a month in some rural schools. Back then the teacher often stayed around among his patrons. He ate what the family ate. He slept in a cold room or got in the wood to heat his room if it had a fireplace in it.

When I started to school the teacher taught reading, writing and arithmetic, grammar, spelling, and maybe geography and history if he had time.

Due to scarcity of paper and other tools for writing, subjects were taught through oral recitations. Lessons were learned by questions and answers. When I first went to school in 1895, I used a slate and a slate pencil instead of having a tablet and lead pencil.

Back then most children wanted to go to school. Where I lived the boys wanted school to start. Back then all the boys worked regularly on the farms of their parents, while the girls did the work around the homes.

I, for one, had much rather go to school than pick cotton, pull fodder, haul hay, dig potatoes or do other manual labor on the farm.

With all the children busy on a farm in the old days, there was no such thing as a teenage problem—in fact, I had never heard the word teenager used until recent years.

There was no serious drop out problem in the school either, about which we read so much in the paper these modern days.

The drop out back then would be put to work sawing wood, splitting rails, clearing land, and doing all kinds of other farm work.

When I was about 13 years old I dropped out for a short time. My father immediately put me to work. After a few weeks I was a drop out in reverse, or a drop back in. I have always contended that the solution to the teenage problem and the drop out problem is to put 'em to work—give 'em plenty to do.

While the children of today have modern comfortable vehicles in which to ride to school; not long ago the children had to walk to school

There was no toilet, not even an old time privy on the boys side of the school I attended. A boy would just disappear into the nearby woods when nature called.

There was no school lunch when I went to school except what mothers prepared at home and packed in a dinner bucket or basket. There was no drinking fountain but a cedar bucket of water on a table in the back corner of the school room with one dipper in it from which everyone drank, and thought nothing of it.

Even with all these inconveniences most children wanted to go to school while today with every modern convenience—might even say luxury—many do not want to go.

Older people, like myself, marvel at the multiplicity of modern educational facilities available to children today.

New things—they're always expensive—are being added all the time. Many schools are making provision for closed circuit TV and radio to bring education to Junior, but Junior goes merrily along without any realization of all the advantages he enjoys.

I think a three-month course in the history of the schools should be required study for every child. This might help the child to realize and appreciate how fortunate he is to have the kind of schools we have today.

In a book I read recently a teacher in a big city school told of how parents demanded that their children be given passing grades whether they made them or not. This teacher lost his job because he refused to give grades to please parents instead of the actual grades they made.

Right here in Picayune not long ago I heard a prominent man complaining of a certain teacher being too tough on his boy. He said the teacher was giving the boy too much to do and that he was making him work too hard. I wanted to tell him that he should have been condemning himself for being so soft and easy with his boy—that he himself was doing his own boy a much greater disservice than the teacher.

Christ Episcopal honors outstanding students

PRINCIPAL HONORED—Myrna Jordan, left, of Long Beach and Christ Episcopal Day School principal receives a gift from the school's faculty and staff presented by French Teacher Kathy Edwards of Bay St. Louis. Jordan was honored after school student award presentations recent.

OUTSTANDING FRENCH STUDENTS—The faculty at Christ Episcopal Day School in Bay St. Louis recently honored its French students earning the highest grade point averages by presenting T-shirts to the youths. Award recipients are, from left, sixth grade student Michael Neely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Neely of Bay St. Louis; fifth grade student Page Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.W. Murphy of Waveland; and fourth grade student Peter Neely, brother of Michael Neely.

Help Children With Asthma Feel "One of the Gang"

Children with asthma can feel "different" from their friends, reports the American Lung Association. Asthma is one of the lung diseases that the Christmas Seal people combat.

Children with asthma lose more days from school than otherwise healthy youngsters, and absences are noticed by classmates. Youngsters with asthma are sometimes limited in sports. Occasionally wheezing takes place at school.

The result frequently is a feeling of rejection and isolation on the part of the child with asthma.

Teachers and the school nurse should be informed if a child has asthma, says the American Lung Association. Parents—even the child's physician—can explain the extent of the impairment, if there is one. They should also explain what action is required and the treatment advised if wheezing occurs.

Teachers' attitudes of acceptance and calmness can help classmates understand asthma. They can also help the child with asthma feel fully integrated into school activities as "one of the gang," says the American Lung Association.

UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIPS—Diane diBenedetto of Bay St. Louis and Daryl Brogle of Waveland have been awarded University Scholarships at The University of Mississippi. Miss diBenedetto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George diBenedetto, graduated from Bay Senior High School. She was on the Alpha Honor Roll, treasurer of the National Honor Society and editor of the school year book. Miss diBenedetto plans to major in accounting at Ole Miss. Brogle is also a graduate of Bay Senior High School, where he was a member of Alpha and Beta Honor Roll, and Mississippi All-State Choir.

Asthma: A Disease Of Contradictions

Asthma, a disease filled with contradictions and varied causes, can nearly always be prevented, according to the American Lung Association, the Christmas Seal people.

Allergy, infection, environmental pollution, cold and exercise may cause asthma in different children. What spurs wheezing in one child may not affect another youngster.

The American Lung Association is embarked on a campaign to fight asthma, particularly pediatric asthma. Children and their parents should learn each child's wheezing threshold and how to avoid it. With the help of a physician, the differing causes of asthma can probably be pinpointed. And the physician can select the correct medication. Today there are even drugs that can prevent wheezing before breathlessness begins. Knowledge and lack of fear can help vanquish asthma.

OUTDOOR PARTY—Kiln Annunciation School students are served cake, punch and cookies by faculty members and parents after recent student award ceremonies in the school's front yard.

Contaminated mushroom can codes reported

The Mississippi State Board of Health is cooperating with U.S. Food and Drug Administration staff to find and recall potentially harmful canned mushrooms.

FDA officials have learned that four-ounce cans of mushroom stems and pieces processed at Oxford Royal Mushroom Products, Inc., of Kelton, Pa., are potentially contaminated. FDA testing showed that some cans produced at the Kelton plant contained botulinum toxin, which can cause botulism, a sometimes fatal food poisoning.

No illness or death has been associated with consumption of any mushrooms, FDA and State Board of Health officials emphasize.

State Board of Health sanitarians and FDA officials are checking with all grocers statewide who might have the potentially dangerous mushrooms. Consumers should also check their shelves and return potentially contaminated cans to the grocer.

Consumers can identify the potentially contaminated cans from the code on the lid. If the second character on the top line of the code is "K," and if the bottom line contains "P1," "P2," "LP1," or "LP2," the product should be considered contaminated and returned to the place of purchase. Only four-ounce cans are included.

The mushrooms have been marketed nationally under almost 50 different brand names, including Brandywine, Food Club, Kroger, and Oxford Royal.

Generic labels simply called "mushrooms, stems and pieces" were distributed through Winn Dixie and Jitney Jungle stores, the FDA said.

The manufacturer is conducting the voluntary recall from the retail and wholesale markets.

Additional information is available by contacting Edsel J. Hart, recall coordinator in FDA's Nashville District Office, telephone 615-261-5851, or by calling the sanitarian at the county health department.

News Brief

GROUP TOUR

The Hancock Chapter of Mississippi Association for Children with Learning Disabilities completed a recent field trip to the New Orleans Superdome.

The group left from the Hancock Community Center at 9 a.m. with 14 children and seven adults.

"This was the last program for the school year, but I want to remind anyone interested we have tapes and literature in the Hancock County Library," said Marion Dailey, president.

MAY GRANTS

The University of Mississippi was awarded more than $431,000 from public and private agencies in support of research and education activities during May.

Brownbuilder Teddy Morel is working for you in Mississippi

Teddy Morel, from Bay St. Louis, is a Mississippi Brownbuilder—one of the men and women of Brown & Root—working for you in Mississippi.

Teddy joined Brown & Root in 1979 as a millwright and is now a chief warehouseman. He and his wife, Shirley, have a son and attend Our Lady of the Gulf Church. Teddy enjoys hunting and fishing on the weekends.

Mississippi Brownbuilders like Teddy are working for you and thousands of your neighbors. He's helping to build the hardware, such as oil fields and power plants, which will help insure Mississippi's future growth and prosperity.

Because of Brown & Root's policy of hiring locally first, most of our Brownbuilders here are natives or longtime residents. Many of them first joined Brown & Root at project personnel offices near their homes. And Brown & Root hires and promotes solely on the basis of individual ability and merit. Anyone willing and qualified is eligible to work. That way, local communities, counties and the state get maximum benefit from projects on which we work—hundreds of thousands of dollars in payrolls, purchases, savings and taxes.

Workshops, seminars, camps fill campus agendas

DANCE, THEATER

The fine arts department at Gulf Coast Junior College will offer a dance and theatre workshop Monday through Friday, July 6-10 at the Perkinston Campus, announced speech and drama instructor Kathryn Lewis.

Lewis, workshop director, said the five-day event is open to anyone interested in theatre from junior high school age and up. A $75 charge covers room, board and recreation. A $15 deposit will be deducted from this charge. Participants not staying on campus will be charged $10 a day.

RONLIN FOREMAN

Guest consultants will be make-up artist Bob Kelly of New York; Rita Sheffield, Biloxi, director of the Sheffield Ensemble Theatre; actor and director Marco St. John, Oceans Springs; and mime Ronlin Foreman of Alabama.

Kelly, who began his career in 1949, was make-up artist for several television shows including Hallmark Hall of Fame, The Ed Sullivan Show, "Sgt. Bilko," and "You Are There." He also worked on "Fiddler on the Roof," "Otherwise Engaged," and "The Adams Chronicles," a bicentennial show for television. In 1968 he began manufacturing cosmetics and eight years later formed Changing Faces, a company that produces make-up kits.

Sheffield is cofounder with her husband, Buddy, of the Sheffield Ensemble Theatre. She has worked as director, choreographer, costumer and sales manager for SET, one of the foremost professional theatres for young audiences in the United States. The company has performed at the Kennedy Center, the Detroit Institute of the Arts, Wolf Trap and Walt Disney World. SET's current production is the musical comedy, "Cleavage."

MARCO ST. JOHN

St. John, a native of Mississippi, is artistic director of the Mississippi Repertory Theatre Company. He has appeared in the leading roles in 11 Broadway shows, including "Forty Carats," opposite Julie Harris and recently finished a pilot, "Second Family Tree," for NBC. St. John has performed off Broadway, at the Lincoln Center, New York Shakespeare Festival and regional theatres.

Foreman has studied at the International Mime and Pantomime Festival and Institute in Wisconsin. He began his work in 1972 with the internationally acclaimed Everyman Players of New Orleans and performed in the company's production of "The Book of Job" and "Pilgrim's Progress." He is creator of "Images," a one-man show performed throughout the Southeastern United States.

Foreman has served as actor and director of Creative Dramatics and Mime at the Nashville Children's Theatre and Director of Drama for the Hearing Impaired with the Mississippi Arts for the Handicapped. The artist has performed at New York's Riverside Church, Miami Center for the Performing Arts, Detroit Art Institute, National Showcase for the ## Performing Arts for Young People and the Southeastern Theatre Conference.

DELTA STATE
Seven workshops are scheduled on the Delta State University campus during the second term of summer school July 6-August 7.

Two other off-campus workshops are planned, one being a Study Tour of Education in England, Wales and Scotland, July 5-26, and the other being the Summer Wilderness Action Teach-In August 8-14 or August 16-22.

Each on-campus workshop will carry three semester hours of graduate or undergraduate credit and fees are $115. Persons interested in the Wilderness Action Teach-In should contact David Hefflin, Department of HPE&R, DSU, Cleveland, Ms 39733, or phone 843-2965.

Others offered include the 10th Annual Summer Science Workshop for Elementary Teachers July 7-14; Interpretation of Current Scientific Research for High School Teachers July 7-15; Planetarium for Elementary and Junior High School Teachers July 7-17; Economics in the Teaching of History July 13-22; Conservation July 13-22; Psychology and Education of the Gifted July 13-22; Methods and Materials for Teaching the Gifted July 23-31.

Registration for the workshops will be held on July 6 during regular summer school registration, or on the first day that the workshop meets.

For additional information contact the Division of Continuing Education, Box C-1, DSU, Cleveland, Ms 39733, or phone 843-8668.

MATHEMATICS
Teachers of mathematics for grades 1-3 are eligible to register for the "Imprint" II course being offered June 20-July 10 through a National Science Foundation grant at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Dr. Nancy Dunigan with co-director Steve Boblin, PhD, will provide intensive training for teachers to meet the increasing demand for quality math education of the elementary student.

Teachers who qualify for the unique content course will receive the free three week "hands-on" laboratory-based training in addition to three hours graduate credit, travel allowance for commuters, and living allowances for teachers who plan to stay in a USM dormitory.

The session is limited to 40 participants. For additional information contact Dr. Nancy Dunigan, Southern Station Box 9194, Hattiesburg, Ms 39401, or call 266-7217.

GERONTOLOGY
An Educational Gerontology workshop will be offered July 20-24 at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park in Long Beach.

Directed by Dr. Willie Pierce, of the Department of Adult Education, the workshop is designed for individuals working with programs designed to improve the lifestyle of the older adult.

For additional information contact Conferences and Workshops, Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Ms. 39401 or by phone at 266-4265.

COMPUTER SCIENCE
The USM Department of Computer Science is now accepting applications for a workshop designed to give teachers, administrators, librarians, and media specialists with no previous computer experience, a practical introduction to microcomputers for instructional and administrative use.

Workshop registration will be June 23 in the McElmore Hall Lobby on the USM Hattiesburg campus.

University housing is available to conference and workshop participants. Different computer systems and software programs will be demonstrated as participants will have a well-rounded view of computing products prior to the workshops conclusion on July 3.

Dr. Hugh Garraway, author of numerous articles on computer instruction in the U.S. and abroad, will conduct the session. Graduate credit will be awarded upon successful completion.

HAIRDRESSERS
The Mississippi Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association Continuing Education Seminar will be held on the USM Hattiesburg campus June 28-30.

The intensive 36 hour course is designed to update the works of Mississippi's leading hair designers and salon owners.

Registration will be held on the Hattiesburg campus from 7-8 p.m. June 27 in the R.C. Cook University Union, first floor. A second registration will be held from 8-9 a.m. in the University Union second floor.

James Viar, reknown commercial artist and fashion designer, will serve as guest artist for the motivation seminar. Academic topics will include: modeling and personal development with Dr. Anne Jordan; communications and anxiety reduction with Dr. Virginia Shands, and assertiveness training and motivation with Ms. Linda Himelein, all USM faculty.

For information contact: USM Department of Conferences and Workshops, USM Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Ms 39401, or phone 266-4265.

FORENSIC SCIENCE

Forensic science will be the topic of a weekend workshop being offered in July at William Carey College on the Coast, 1856 Beach Blvd., Gulfport.

During the workshop, scheduled for three successive weekends beginning July 10, qualified professionals will cover such topics as rape investigation, bite mark and stomatology, suicide investigation, homicide investigation, laws and rules of evidence, arson and death investigation. Additional topics will be announced at the first meeting.

Classes will meet on Fridays from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. till 12:30 p.m. Tuition is $149 for students wishing to earn three semester hours credit. Non-credit students will pay a fee of $75.

For further information contact Carey on the Coast at 896-4455, or William Carey College, Hattiesburg, at 582-8051, ext. 209 or 231.

READING

The 41st Annual Reading Conference June 15-19 is designed for reading, classroom and special education teachers and will include experts from USM, the State Department of Education, Mississippi Educational Television and other areas.

Dr. Eleanor Noble will direct the conference's panel of experts, who will cover such topics as children's literature, early childhood reading development, the gifted child and secondary reading.

In the classes to meet from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. daily, speakers will demonstrate techniques to enhance reading through drama, art and music.

The English as a Second Language Workshop June 8-12 will prepare teachers for working with the non-native student in reading, writing, grammar and vocabulary.

Director Henri Sue Byrum from the English Language Institute said that the usual solution to having non-native speakers in a school is to assign them to an English or remedial reading teacher who rarely has training in teaching such students.

Registration for all three workshops will begin at 8 a.m. June 8 on the first floor of McElmore Hall at USM.

For additional information contact Conferences and Workshops at 266-4265.

HANDICAPPED
Cross Motor Management for the Physically and Multi-Handicapped Child will be a workshop presented for parents of the children as well as professionals during the month of June by the University of Southern Mississippi.

Learning topics will include treatment methods, determining the child's needs, planning programs around these needs and then implementing the program.

The event will be directed by Joe Cracraft, USM associate professor of Physical Education, and Fran Ford, registered physical therapist.

For preregistration information contact: USM Department of Conferences and Workshops, Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Ms. 39401, or call 266-4265 or 266-4266.

HANDICAP CAMP

Camping for the Handicapped will be topic of a workshop presented for students, professionals and parents during the month of June by the University of Southern Mississippi.

The participation events will include first aid and safety considerations, waterfront activities, rhythms, horseback riding, recreational games, and many fun activities.

The event will be directed by Joe Cracraft, USM associate professor of Physical Education and Kent Rindfleisch, USM assistant professor of recreation. Eight experiences staff members will assist as staff members.

For preregistration information contact: USM Department of Conferences and Workshops, Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Ms 39401, or call 266-4265, 266-4266.

INSTRUCTIONAL TV

An Instructional Television Workshop II will be offered June 22-27 at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Directed by Dr. Ed Garcia, of the School of Library Service, the workshop will feature Ed Van Cleef, producer of Mississippi ETV's "Passover."

The workshop is designed for teachers and librarians who have a working knowledge of television or have participated in a previous TV workshop.

COMMUNITY ED
A Community Education workshop will be offered June 22-26 at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park.

Directed by Dr. William Hetrick, of the Department of Educational Administration, the workshop will offer an indepth look at community education with emphasis on organization, promotion and programming.

For additional information contact Conferences and Workshops, at 864-2155.

SHOP SAFETY

A School Shop Safety workshop will be offered June 22-26 at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park.

Directed by Dr. Marvin Lannon, of the Department of Industrial and Vocational Education, the workshop will present meaningful information about safety and accident prevention as it applies to instructional settings.

COMPOSITION

A Teaching Composition workshop will be offered June 22-26 at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Directed by Dr. Dixie Hickman, of the Department of English, the workshop will focus on sentence-combining, standard usage, evaluating student writing, teaching punctuation and using a writing lab.

EARLY CHILDHOOD

A Learning Centers in Early Childhood Education workshop will be offered June 22-26 at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Directed by Drs. Patricia Jobe and Ohren Rains, of the College of Education and Psychology, the workshop is designed for teachers in kindergarten through third grade to help them set up classroom learning centers.

MAINTENANCE

Organizing and managing a preventive maintenance program will be the focus of a June 18-19 workshop at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park.

Topics to be discussed include extending the life of equipment, improving job safety, reducing repair calls and minimizing delays.

The workshop will be of interest to plant managers, maintenance engineers, safety directors and others responsible for managing or implementing a preventive maintenance program.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. June 18 and classes will meet from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. The seminar leader will be from the staff of the Engineering Management Division of Syska and Hennessy, a firm specializing in mechanical, electrical and sanitary engineering.

WWII unit sets reunion

The 904th Field Artillery Battalion of the famed 79th Infantry Division of WW II will conduct its 33rd annual reunion in Lexington, Ky. July 2, 3 and 4.

The battalion, after participating in the Normandy Invasion, was distinguished for conquering the Cherbourg Peninsula in addition to battle campaigns in Northern France, Rhineland and Central Europe.

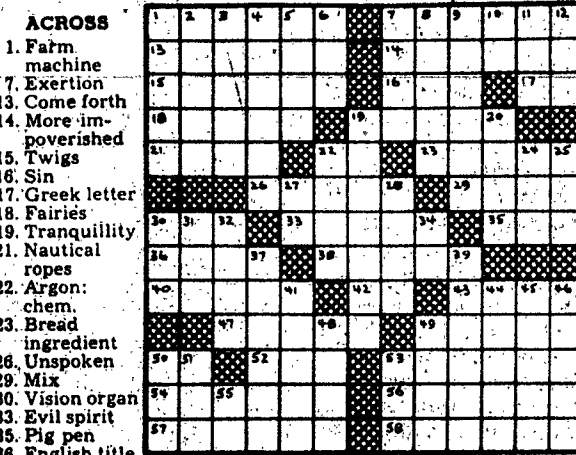

The 79th Division was known as the Lorraine Cross Division and was awarded France's Unit Citation of the Croix DeGuerre for its assistance in combat to that country.

Duke Levy, now a resident of Pass Christian, who served with the battalion from its activation in June 1942 and throughout combat, is interested in getting this reunion notice to all former members of the 904th Battalion who reside in Mississippi and neighboring states.

He may be contacted at (601) 452-9971.
